cability, gives the following account of his own experience in drinks:

We began to drink early—a few days after birth—and we have been at it ever since. We did not begin exactly on grog, or tea, or coffee—though we have been told by our brethren they think we could have stood it even thus early. We are told we took to the latter, and the use of we are took we took to the latter, and the use of wine very kindly; it was a constitutional habit we derived from our progenitors. We were always taught to view a drunkard as a filthy creature, and, once confirmed in the habit, of little consequence, and better dead than alive; so we still think. We brought the matter of lager been ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY, sleep; so we discontinued its use at those times, nor do we now use it during spring or summer; PAINTS. ig it only for the coldest weather, whe we can breathe it away, and not feel it in our head. In the spring and fall months we use Phila-adelphia ale, but as soon as the summer approaches we invariably find that article either drugged or liquored up to the fuddling point; then we stop it, and take to claret, which never affects the headand take to claret, which never affects the head—as we use it—possibly because we never take enough, as in our humble opinion, all the brains a man has, especially if he knows them to be moderate in quantity, he had better keep in good working order, if he gets his living by surgery. We take black tea in the morning for its exciting and sustaining properties—not in the evening, because its exciting property would keep us awake all night; green tea is very delicious and very intoxicating, and we never use it, because we know it to be so. Coffee we love dearly, and used in our to be so. Coffee we love dearly, and used in our youth to be a coffee sot. We left it off because it had nearly destroyed our digestion, and gave us violent palpitation of the heart; our nervous system could not stand it; nevertheless, we love it excessively still, as our nose informs us when we smell it, but we never use it. Now for the exper imentum crucis. Falkirk ale, costing twenty cents for a small pint, does not produce any swimming of the head or confusion of ideas—although we know it contains spirit, because if it did not,

> price; it only costs seven cents, and will make a man's head swim and his eye-lids droop as quick, and its effect will last as long as the vilest kind of lager beer; so we set that down in summer as of lager beer; so we set that down in summer as drugged or liquored. Lager beer costs three cents to six, differing in price according to the getting up of the place where it is drank. Now a couple of glasses will produce more effect than either of the others; one is quite enough to be felt sensibly over the eyes, and is very apt to be followed by headache. Jefferson's Wedding and Wedding The following pleasing picture is from the Early Days of Jefferson," in the New York Century:

"Belinda" (Jefferson's first love) had been married many years, and her old admire was approaching thirty, when he met with a young lady of twenty-two, who produced a strong impression upon him. She was above the medium hight, slender but elegantly formed. A fair complexion, with a delicute tint of the roae; large hazel eyes, full of life and feeling; and unuriant hair of a rich soft anburn, formed a combination of attractions which were eminently calculated to move the heart of a pouthful backelor. In addition to all this, the lady was admirably graceful: she rode, danced and moved with elegant case, and sang and played on the harmicon way sweetly. Add still to these accomplishments the possession of excellent good sense, very considerable cultivation, a warm, loving heart, and last, though not least, notable talents for house-keeping, and it will not be difficult to understand how the youthful Mr. Jefferson came to visit very frequently at the lady's residence, in the county of Charles City. It was called "The Forest," and the name of the lady was Mis. Martin Skelton. She was a daughter of John Wayles, an eminent lawyer; and had unarried in her seventeenth year, Mr. Bathurst Skelton, who, dying in 1768, left his young wife a widow at minetoen. As the three years of mourning began to expire, the beautiful young lady found herself besieged at "The Forest" by numerous visitors. Of these, three were favorites with the fair Mrs. Skelton, of whom Mr. Thomas Jefferson was one. The tradition runs that the pretantions of the rivale were decided, either by the musical accomplishments of the counsellor, or by the fairs of his opponents. The tale is differently related. One version is that the two unfurtures gestlemes encountered each other or Mrs. Skelton's door step, but hearing Mrs. Jifferently related. Our stock of Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Nuts and Preserves is complete, and will be sold at lew priors for each, having adopted the motto of "Small Profits and Quick Returns," we would have all to give us a trial be-fore purchasing elsewhere.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette. Personal Letters from Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 5. Yesterday morning my friend N—called pon me to fulfill his promise of taking me to lear one of the popular ministers of the place. In the center of the city there is a circular piece of ground, and on the street surrounding this, or in the vicinity, the most important churches are to be found. My companion conducted me to a brown edifice on the east side of the "Circle," Gen. Harrison." But my friend is one of those kind hearted souls who cannot endure that any one should know less than themselves; therefore, his tongue, once in motion, "did its duty well," as in whispers he advises me that "that gentleman with the bandage about his head is Col. Dumont, Commissioner of the Sinking Fund, and son of the authoress; the one who rises an if to offer a seat to the Col., who is already past, is James M. Ray, Cashier of the State Bank; this tall man coming in its W m. Sheets, first Whig, then K. N., and now a firm Republican; the little man, who rests his head upon his hand, is Thos. McIntyre, Superintendent of Asylum for Deaf and Dumb; this gentleman passing with his family, is Judge Roache, lately from Rockville, &c., "until interrupted by the commencement of Male Rev. We were disappointed in our object, as it was announced that Dr. Wood of Hanover College, would be the minister of the morning. I heard the Rev. Cunningham, however, at night.

herself in male attire and went into the street.

She was met by an officer, who noticed the strange action of the supposed man. He accosted the person, and ascertained the state of affairs. At first the officer intended to take her to jail, but first the officer intended to take her to jail, but if any of them are sick they are visited in their cells by the physician. There is no discovering who the party was, and learning too.

Opposition in different parts of the country is best exhibited by the resolutions which have been lately adopted in their several conventions. The Black Republicans of New York, Michigan, and Black Republicans of New York, Michigan, and in that paper of the 6th:

We do not enter the field as the avowed advouched in the states, have within the prison are opened. Shoe-making and weaving are the only kinds slot, and there are a few teeth on the face of the wheels, and suitable notches in the inner surface of the rails, so that as the former revolve, their teeth take into the notches of the rails at proper intervals, and thus shift and hold them under the wheels with perfect regularity.

—Orderly Appearance of Charleston.—Burleigh, the correspondent of the Beston Courier, writing from Charleston, S. C., says:

The quiet on the streets of Charleston at night is marked. No rude boys are seen at from the city water-works. They manufacture their own gas for the offices, halls and cell houses, ings are heated with steam. The most of the cooking is done with steam.

The only runishment inflicted is confinement in a dark cell, without water or food for twentyfour hours, and after that half a ration of bread and water every twenty four hours, until the prisoner acknowledges his fault and promises to do better. There is no chair or bed in the cell, and if he sleeps at all he has to sleep on a stone floor. This is an awful punishment, far worse on mind and body than the "cat" or "showerbath."

The prisoners are amply supplied with good and wholesome food. The prison is also remarka bly clean, but there is no working or manufac-turing carried on that would make any dirt. The prison is very quiet, so much so that the stillness was really oppressive. There are now twe hundred and fifty six priso-

The whole number received since the opening of the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; of these eighteen hundred and thirty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; of these eighteen hundred and thirty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; of these eighteen hundred and thirty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1st, 1826, is two thousand one hundred and fifty-five; and the prison, July 1s said he, "is a young lawyer, and a grandson of Gen. PARMERS DEPARTMENT A RIDE ON THE STEAM PLOW. - Prof. ALFRED L. KENNEDY, M. D., writes the following to the

Country Gentleman:

Yesterday will be ever memorable in a life by no means devoid of incident, for then was realized a long cherished wish to ride on a successful steam plow of American invention. The day was balmy; fleecy clouds and a slight haze shielded man and nature from the summer sun. The oats, the last of our smaller cereals to yield up their treasures, were ready for the reapers, who were the last of our smaller cereals to yield up their treasures, were ready for the reapers, who were now rejoicing over all the land, because of a superabundant harvest. A fit day for the rendering of a judgment on a new means of agricultural progress—to inaugurate a great agricultural era. The committees of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society and of its venerable prototype, the Philadelphia Society for promoting Agriculture, were in attendance. The extensive grounds of the Oxford Park Association had been thrown open to the committee.

were in attendance. The extensive grounds of the Oxford Park Association had been thrown open to the committee.

And a decision was to be made on the merits of the invention of John W. Fawkes, a Lancaster county mechanic, who, after three years of almost despairing struggle and utter privation spent in the embodiment of his grand idea, now submitted the product of his grand idea, which told of minyled confidence and anxiety, giving orders to the foreman, his rough attire, soiled in such a cause, appeared more honorable than imperial purple. By his permission I stepped upon the engine, and stood by his side, as the shrill whistle gave the signal to start. The gang of eight 14-inch prairie plows, which till now had hung by cranes at the rear end of the machine, were quickly lowered on the hard sod. One movement of the lever and onward we went, up an ascent of about seven degrees, and with a smooth, uniform motion. As the eight shares entered the soil I apprehended a sudden check and strain, like that apprehended a sudden check and strain, like that about seven degrees, and with a smooth, uniform motion. As the eight shares entered the soil I apprehended a sudden check and strain, like that felt when a railroad train is partially "braked up," but nothing of the kind was experienced in the enormous driving wheel or rather drum, beneath my feet, I could not detect the least sliding on the sod. The traction was perfect.

Before us the beautiful green turf swept under the bow of our gallant craft. Behind us lay a wide deep brown wake, in which scarce a tinge of green bow of our gallant craft. Behind us lay a wide deep brown wake, in which scarce a tinge of green was visable. Under the stern the eight board waves of sod lifted their crests, and rolled over like surges falling upon the beach. "Steady she goes," as our helmsman, with hand upon the tiler, and eye upon the guide-wheels, keeps upon the straight course. But we near the edge of our field. Two shrieks of the whistle, and up rise the plows. Starboard your helm! Round sweeps our craft as easily and gracefully as a bird on wing, and we came again in line. Another whistle, and the plows are lowered, and in less time than that required to follow this sentence, she is off! A flush of triumphant pleasure mantles the Dr. Swing announces to ladies in want of a remedy for off! A flush of triumphant pleasure mantles the face of the inventor. The grade slightly descends. The crowd which has toiled after us up the ascent quicken their pace. Still we are leaving them. Now only the foremost—then the whole party preak into a run, and shouts, like those which followed the triumphal car of a Ro-

Many were the warm grasps of congratulation which greeted the American conqueror as he stepped from his car of triumph, and in modest terms proposed to subject the machine to any test which the committee miget suggest. "Can you cross-plow the land you have just turned over?" "Yes, sir," was the prompt reply, and wheeling his machine into position, he crossed at right angles the furrow previously thrown up. Subsequently gulleys were passed over, abrupt elevations surmounted, and finally the plows were detached and an omnibus hitched to the engine. "Here we are now, right off," cried a facetious passenger, and right off we were, going over the tretting course at a good round pass.

Feelings of intense gratification appeared to animate the entire assembly, and I left the grounds with emotions of thankfulness to that great and good Being, who in our own day had enabled a fellow-countryman to make the giant steam trib-utary to the art of cultivation, and the means of untold blessings to milliens.

Courray Boys.—Country lads often feel that their lot is a hard one. They see city-bred young-sters on their travels and their sprees at the age of fourteen! veritable young gentlemen, with a finished exterior, a segar and a cane. The young farmer at the same age finds himself with a hoe in hand and a cheap straw hat on his head, sweating among the hills of corn. He is frequently envious of his city brother—whisking past him in the cars with kid gloves, delicate ringlets, and plenty of money in his pocket.

Mind your corn, boy; hoe it out clean; keep steadily to the labor you have in hand; do it wall, and in time your good days will come too.

well, and in time your good days will come too. If you find farming is not suited to your taste, or your strength, or circumstances, if you like mechanism better, or circumstances, it you have mechanism better, or have a capacity for busi-ness, whatever eventually you may engage in, it is all the same, you have begun right. The city blades have begun wrong; and in due time you will see it. Their fathers and mothers will, n the end, see it too. Do not feel envious of the pleasures that a hot-house man enjoys; but remember, not in a malicous but sober spirit, that such plants wither early. By the time you have acquired fixed habits of industry and acquired a corresponding perfection of mind and body, your delicately reared cotemporary of the town begins to feel the debilitating effects of idleness and dissipation. If e is not alone to blame for a weak body and a profitless mind; it is the result of a system; but he can not escape from its effects these he must endure for himself in his own per son. His father may be a professional man or a merchant, or may be merely rich; the chances are fifty against one that the son will not replace his father. Such is the result of well settled exwho are most competent; it does not descend to heirs. It is the country boys after all who do the city business. Observing men have often stated this fact; and inquire into the origin of Cleveland, or Boston, or New York, you will find it to be so. All external circumstances are n favor of the son or the clerk succeeding to the in favor of the son or the clerk succeeding to the trade of the old firm; but the son seldom, almost never, dies in the position of a partner of the house. Why is it? Simply because habitual industry is wanting, habitual induspence is not wanting. With all the external odds against it, the country furnishes the cities their principal business men. If intelligent, faithful, and persevering, and, above all, cheerful and contented, the chances are that the lad with the hoe will eventually do the business of the father of the lad in gloves, who is now luxuriating in his travels.—Ohio Farmer.

E BEG LEAVE TO ANNOUNCE TO OUE custo ers. and to the trade in general, that during this season no traveling agent will be dispatched from our works. We invite our old customers and others to favor us by letter with their orders for ESSENCES OF LIQUOR . ESSENCES OF LIQUOR , which, as always, will be executed to their entire satisfaction. Thousands appreciate the plan upon which our Essences are made, which presents the following advantages and facilities, never offered by others:

1. The Essences from these works are actually rained by distillation, therefore Healthy and Pure—something that others cannot or dare not claim for theirs.

2. The costs are much less than others; because these Essences are put up in packages, each containing enough for forty gallons, and comprising not only all therequired ingredients, but also the coloring.
